LBJ Asks Soviet Chiefs Help Curb Reds in Asia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration has asked the new Soviet leaders to use their influence to halt Communist operations from North Viet Nam against South Viet Nam.

The request was made to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko by Secretary of State Dean Rusk in the course of a series of conferences Gromyko held here with Rusk and President Johnson. Rusk also asked the Russians Wednesday to work for peace in Southeast Asia.

Gromyko conferred with Johnson at the White House for about 90 minutes. In a show of cordiality, the President escorted him to the door when the talk ended.

Gromyko said disarmament and several other subjects were discussed in his meeting with the President and added: "I think that the exchange of views was useful and the atmosphere in the course of the conversation was friendly."

He did not specify the other topics taken up with Johnson. But he did say that the President welcomed the $55 million defense budget cut which was announced Wednesday by Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

Asked whether Johnson and he talked about the possibility of an East-West summit conference, Gromyko brushed aside the question.

Johnson was understood, however, to have developed the line that he is deeply interested in easing tensions and improving East-West relations, particularly in the field of new disarmament agreements. He has made clear in the past that if there were constructive results in view he would be willing to go anywhere and meet with anyone for the purpose.

Gromyko said he brought to Johnson a message of best wishes from the Soviet leaders — the men who replaced Premier Nikita Khrushchev in mid-October.

An earlier meeting between Rusk and Gromyko over luncheon at the Soviet Embassy produced what U.S. officials called a lively exchange on the war in South Viet Nam. It was on that occasion that Rusk told Gromyko the United States hoped the Soviet Union would use its influence to work for peace in Southeast Asia.

Gromyko, according to U.S. informants, told Rusk the Soviet Union thought the United States should withdraw its troops from South Viet Nam. Rusk replied that the troops were in South Viet Nam to assist the government and people there in the defense against aggression from North Viet Nam and that the United States was fully informed on infiltration of men and supplies from the north into the south.

Charity Newsies Slated Monday

The annual Kiwanis sponsored charity newspaper sale has been scheduled for Monday evening.

David Hoffman project chairman, announced today that the benefit program would get under way 6:30 p. m. Monday with an auction of the first few copies. The auction, to be held in the Common Pleas courtroom at the courthouse, is open to the public.

Assisting Kiwanians in the door-to-door sale of the welfare paper will be members of the Circleville High School Key Club.

Naval Academy Asks Quaker Peace Treatise

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)—A Quaker historian has been asked to write a treatise on pacifism for history students at the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md.

Dr. T. Canby Jones, chairman of the Department of Religion and Philosophy at Wilmington College, got the assignment after the Naval Academy students asked that a treatment of the Quaker philosophy of non-violence be included in a planned course on "The Philosophy of War" next fall. Dr. Jones is an authority on Quaker history and George Fox, the founder of the sect.

Guiana Premier Is Rejected

Political Foe Eyes Coalition

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP) — Opposition leader Forbes Burnham today rejected maneuvers by Premier Cheddi Jagan to remain in the government of British Guiana.

Burnham turned down Jagan's overture to join forces with him and said instead he would form a government with the support of the country's third party, Peter D'Aguiar's ultraconservative United Force. He said D'Aguiar had offered to support him.

Jagan, who won a plurality but not a majority in the voting, said he would fight efforts to install a coalition of Burnham's Negro People's National Congress and the United Force.

Had Jagan teamed up with Burnham, he could have claimed credit for any governmental accomplishments. With East Indians outnumbering the Negroes 3 to 2, this would have given him a good chance for victory in the next election.

A moderate Socialist, Burnham had refused to ally himself with the radical Jagan on other occasions.

Jagan achieved a vote plurality, just as he did in becoming the colony's first premier in 1961. But he did not get a majority, which was necessary to stay in power under the proportional representation system the British adopted to get Jagan out.

Poodle Proves Honk Worse Than Her Bite

CLEVELAND (AP) — Charmaine won't be making many trips with the Willard E. Smith family of suburban Brooklyn Heights now that she has learned to blow the horn of the family automobile.

Charmaine is a 2-year-old poodle and a pet of the Smiths' son, Earl. She formerly accompanied the Smiths on trips to the grocery store and other visits, but has blown her chances of going to the store any more.

She would bark when the family left her in the car to go into the store, but finally settled down when she found she wasn't going in with them. Then one day she discovered how to blow the horn.

Mrs. Smith said Charmaine's horn tooting became more frequent and "now she starts honking as soon as we walk away from the automobile."

Mrs. Smith said the poodle would stay home "unless we can keep her paws away from the horn. We find her honk is worse than her bark."

Pettit Heads Flying Assn.; Aviation Expansion Sought

Local aviation enthusiasts last night elected Richard Pettit as new president of Circleville Flying Assn.

Pettit, who had been secretary-treasurer, succeeds Robert Litter as head of the organization which has embarked on a campaign to update Pickaway County in the field of aviation.

Other officers named were: Leon Ostrander, first vice-president; Chester McKenzie, second vice-president; Mrs. Sherman Campbell, secretary-treasurer; and Dr. Ray Carroll, safety director.

IN ADDITION, a steering committee was named made up of Warren Harmon, Robert Muddock, Litter, Pettit and Mrs. Campbell.

As first vice-president, Ostrander will be charged with development of an active membership. He is a licensed flying instructor and is manager of Thomas Field, west of the city.

Ohio Reapportionment Measure Slated To Go On Ballot in May

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Senate approval of House-adopted reapportionment broke a legislative log jam that apparently will bring an end to the General Assembly's special session early next week.

The upper chamber, with conference committee action on congressional redistricting the final obstacle, turned today to a flock of House bills accumulated during the reapportionment squabble.

House members were sent home Wednesday, subject to recall by telegram, by Speaker Roger Cloud, R-Logan, who said he expected the special session would end early next week, possibly Tuesday.

Senate Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem, R-Athens, saw only "an outside chance" that matters could be wrapped up before the end of the special session's fifth week.

Majority Republicans, deadlocked in caucus for two days over the House-approved reapportionment resolution, mustered their 20th and decisive Senate vote Wednesday when Sen. Robin T. Turner, R-Seneca, yielded to pressure from his GOP colleagues. All 12 Democrats on hand voted against it.

Turner had withheld what he called "the 20th vote" because of reported dissatisfaction over a congressional redistricting plan.

"I support this resolution with serious reservations and because we all know something has to be done," Turner told the Senate.

A three-fifths majority of the 33-member upper chamber was needed to adopt the resolution which now goes before the voters in the May primary. Sen. John C. Smith, D-Montgomery, was absent.

With reapportionment out of the way, the Senate-House conference committee named to iron out differences on congressional redistricting was expected to get down to business today. House and Senate versions of the redistricting bill were widely divergent but Rep. Charles F. Kurfess, R-Wood, a member of the six-man conference committee, indicated agreement on disputes involving Montgomery and Summit counties could speed the committee's work.

The reapportionment resolution, which grew out of the U.S. Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" decision earlier this year, provides that members of the Ohio House be elected on the basis of one member for every 69,32 population.

Once Around Roundtown

MAYOR Ben H. Gordon received a customary Christmas card today. The greeting was sent by Sophie Tucker, an old friend.

According to Mayor Gordon, the famous entertainer annually mails about 7,000 Christmas cards. And she takes care of all the addressing and allied chores herself.

Local fans will remember that Sophie was an honored guest at this year's Pumpkin Show, along with an old friend in the theatrical world — Circleville's own Ted Lewis.

RESIDENTS of Tarlton who are subscribers to the village-owned gas system were in for a pleasant surprise today when they attempted to pay their bills.

The village system has realized a tidy profit during the past year. And Mayor Alan Hubbell authorized that all bills for the month of November be marked paid.

Concurring with the mayor's desire to give the residents a "Christmas Gift" was Arnold Reicheiderfer, Edgar Turvey and Richard Ballard, members of the gas commission.

City Puts Holiday Hoods on Park Meters

RATON, N.M. (AP) — The City Commission declared Wednesday a moratorium on all parking meters until Dec. 2.

The action was taken to accommodate Christmas shoppers. Some merchants put Christmas wrapping paper over the meters in front of their stores.

In a similar period a year ago, $450 was collected from the city's 320 meters.

Foreigners File Protests By Burning U.S. Libraries

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's become increasingly tempting in certain circles abroad to register a protest by sacking the nearest U.S. Information Agency library and burning its books.

Since 1947 there have been 75 violent incidents involving American libraries. This year there has been a new high — 16 incidents in 10 different countries, according to the agency.

Brazilian students disappeared of an increase in bus fares so they smashed the windows of the USIA library. In Cairo, Egyptian mobs protested the U.S. landing of Belgian paratroopers in the Congo by wrecking the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library.

Bolivia tops the list with five library-wrecking demonstrations this year. Indonesia is next with three. Other countries include Panama, Cambodia, Colombia, Pakistan, Ceylon and the Sudan.

The fiery trend has aroused Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who warned Wednesday that "these violent acts cannot but affect relationships between nations."

In a public statement that did not name countries, Rusk said while the United States promptly files protests and asks for apologies and reparations "this is not a satisfactory substitute for prevention."

"The U.S. government has noticed the tendency of these violent assaults to recur in certain countries," Rusk said. "And it is especially concerned about violent acts which appear to be connived at or acquiesced in by authorities of the host state, or in which the authorities are slow in taking action to control mobs of rioters."

U.S. Information Agency Director Carl T. Rowan was more blunt in a speech this week in Cleveland:

"I have been beset by anger, and then pity, as I have read of the senseless mobs in the UAR (United Arab Republic), in Indonesia, and other places smashing library buildings and destroying books."

"Many times these last few days I have remembered John Milton's warnings: 'As good almost kill a man as kill a good book; who kills a man kills a reasonable creature, God's image; but he who destroys a good book kills reason itself.'"

The USIA operates 178 libraries and 66 reading rooms. It supports 148 binational centers around the world where the United States supplies the books and periodicals while the staff salaries of the librarians are paid for by the host government.

Artillery Blasts

Foil Red Attack

BA DUA, South Viet Nam (AP) — Four U.S. Army advisers cornered in a small building by attacking Viet Cong infantry early today called in air burst artillery right on top of themselves to drive off the enemy.

This desperate measure caught the Viet Cong in the open only yards from the Americans' positions. The assault faltered and lost momentum as shells screamed in from six howitzers.

"We hugged our foxholes as that stuff burst 20 feet up in the sky," said Capt. Harry C. Spaulding of Seattle, Wash. "We were underground and they were above it. That stopped them in their tracks and turned the tide."

President To Dispense With High Hat Garb

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy will dispense with the traditional top hat and morning coat at his inaugural, taking the oath in a black suit and four-in-hand tie.

The word on what the President will wear Jan. 20 came Wednesday from his wife's press secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter. She also said the President planned to appear in dinner jacket and black tie at the four inaugural balls to be held in the capital that night.

6 Yanks Lost In 2 Days

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Six Americans have died during the past two days of hard fighting in South Viet Nam as the Communist Viet Cong intensify their effort to overrun the country. Another American is missing.

South Vietnamese military officials believe the Viet Cong has launched its winter-spring offensive. Beginning last weekend, Communist attacks increased sharply.

Communist raids and ambushes at scattered points in mountainous central Viet Nam aroused belief that the Viet Cong hopes to drive government forces from that area adjacent to Communist North Viet Nam.

A U.S. Army officer killed Wednesday in a battle to retake a hill raised to 232 the number of Americans who have died in combat in South Viet Nam since December 1961.

A U.S. spokesman said an American enlisted man and an Australian officer were wounded in the same battle near the provincial capital of Tam Ky, about 350 miles northeast of Saigon. Several hundred Viet Cong overran the fortified hill before government forces fought their way back.

Earlier, the Viet Cong killed a U.S. Army officer in a highway ambush in Phu Yen Province, 230 miles northeast of Saigon along the South China Sea.

A helicopter gunner was killed and a U.S. Army adviser was missing and presumed dead or captured in fighting Tuesday for a fortified hill in the An Lao mountain valley, 300 miles northeast of Saigon. Three American soldiers were killed Tuesday when the Viet Cong overran a small outpost at the southern tip of Viet Nam.

In the Communist-infested Mekong Delta, a powerful Viet Cong force attacked a government battalion early today at Ba Dua, 45 miles southwest of Saigon.

Government forces reportedly beat off the attack in a half-hour battle, killing an estimated 50 Viet Cong. Twelve government soldiers were killed and 19 wounded. American advisers took part in the defense but none was reported wounded.

Quick Draw Game Proves Fatal to 18-Year-Old Boy

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—A game of "quick draw" was blamed today for the death of 18-year-old Richard Hankey of nearby Perry.

Richard, whose father, John Hankey, died three months ago, took a friend, Timothy Hiel, to see his brother's gun collection Wednesday night. Lake County sheriff's deputies said there were about 30 guns in the collection that was kept by Dennis Hankey in an upstairs bedroom.

Hill told deputies that Hiel urged him to "grab a gun and draw—see who is fastest." Hiel said he grabbed a .22 caliber pistol, not aware that the gun was loaded. The weapon fired, and Richard fell to the floor, clutching his stomach. He died a few minutes later. The coroner's office ruled the death accidental.

FBI Presents Evidence in Slaying of Trio

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — An FBI agent told a U.S. commissioner today he had a confession signed by one of 21 men charged in connection with the killing of three civil rights workers.

A dozen defense attorneys immediately objected to use of the alleged confession on grounds it was "hearsay" evidence.

The report of the alleged confession came at a preliminary hearing before Commissioner Esther Carter for 19 of the 21 men arrested last Friday.

Henry Rasp, 39, FBI agent from Atlanta, Ga., told Miss Carter he got a confession in the killing from Horace Doyle Barnett, 25, last November.

Miss Carter ruled Rasp could not give details of the alleged confession. Defense attorneys requested a copy of the alleged confession and Miss Carter called a recess to study the question of admitting it as evidence.

Nineteen of those arrested were charged with conspiring to interfere with the federal rights of the three youths. The other two were charged as accessories.

Only the state can file a murder charge. It has made no move to do so.

Informed sources said the FBI information would be outlined to Dist. Atty. W. H. Johnson for possible state action after the preliminary hearing.

Johnson's district includes Neshoba County, which takes in Philadelphia where the bodies of the three civil rights workers were found buried in a farm pond Aug. 4.

Those charged include Neshoba County Sheriff Lawrence Rainey, 41, of Philadelphia and his deputy, Cecil Price, 26.

Price was among 10 of the men the government accused of having actually plotted to intercept the trio and "assault, shoot and kill them."

Baker Probe Is Shelved For Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's stormy Bobby Baker hearings have been closed down until next month as agreement was reached to call former White House aide Walter Jenkins for questioning.

The committee also decided that the "party girl" issue that has bobbed up in the Baker probe required no further investigation.

Jenkins resigned in the midst of the presidential campaign after disclosure he twice had been arrested on morals charges. His resignation was requested by President Johnson, with whom he had been closely associated for 25 years.

The Senate Rules Committee announced no date for questioning Jenkins as part of its probe into the outside business and financial dealings of Baker, former secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority. Jenkins' name was brought into the inquiry months ago in testimony by Don B. Reynolds, a local insurance agent, about the purchase of advertising time on an Austin, Tex., television station controlled by President Johnson's family.

Levy Defeated Again

BELLE FONTAINE, Ohio (AP) — Logan County's Indian Lake School District's proposed 3.8 mill levy for five years was defeated by voters for the second time Wednesday. Russell Point, Lakeview, Huntsville and Lewistown are included in the district.

Archbishop Opens Fire on Crime Films

CLEVELAND (AP)—At all masses in the Cleveland Diocese of the Roman Catholic Church Sunday a letter by Archbishop Edward F. Hoban will be read asking parishioners to back the Legion of Decency pledge against "indecent and immoral motion pictures and those which glorify crime and criminals."

The archbishop's letter says in part:

"The motion picture industry, to make money, now produces, advertises and exhibits more immoral motion pictures than in any previous year. This presents both a problem and a challenge to the responsible layman. In the face of such blatant wholesale indecency, how is the Christian conscience to react?"

"For 30 years the Legion of Decency has aimed at mobilizing the combined efforts of Christian people to promote good entertainment and to discourage immoral and unwholesome motion pictures. The pledge of the Legion of Decency, which I ask you to make today, does not add any new obligations to your conscience. This pledge simply specifies the way in which each Catholic, like a soldier of Christ, must witness to Christ in the modern world."

Local Man Fined $200 in Court

John Fyffe, 448 Watt St., was handed fines totaling $200 plus a 30-day suspended jail sentence yesterday by Municipal Court Judge Sterling M. Lamb.

Fyffe was charged with intoxication, resisting arrest and malicious destruction of property. The fines were $50 on each of the first two counts and $100 on the third.

The judge also suspended $50 of the fines and placed Fyffe on probation for three years.

The charges were filed by Patrolman Dixie Watters and by Bert Galion, owner of Bert's Bar and Grill.

The case was originally filed in Circleville Municipal Court.

Judge To Order Ban Against Rail Strike

CHICAGO (AP) — A disagreement over wages that could affect traffic on more than 90 per cent of the nation's railroads has moved from the bargaining table to the bench.

U.S. Dist. Judge Joseph Sam Perry said Wednesday he would issue a restraining order Monday forbidding three railroad hops unions presenting more than 53,000 workers from striking for at least 10 days.

The order would nullify a strike scheduled for Dec. 15.

Hundreds of Ohio firms are sharing profits of a good year with 33 members of the Ohio Foundation of Independent Colleges, reports F. Edward Lund, president of Kenyon College and OFIC chairman.

The Second National Bank, E. Main St., was one of the contributors, according to Lund.

In the first half of its fiscal year, OFIC lists 148 increases in corporate gifts from past donors and 152 from firms not contributing previously.

Continuation of this trend, Lund says, will provide substantially more than last year's $1,226,895 to strengthen OFIC colleges not receiving tax aid for operating funds.

FBI Presents

20, both white New Yorkers, and James Chaney, 21, a Meridian Negro.

One of the 21 charged was arrested in Biloxi. His preliminary hearing comes up there Friday. Another was arrested in Shreveport, La., and his hearing will be held there.

The law under which the charges were made has been on the books since 1870, and was passed with an eye toward the Ku Klux Klan which was then actively operating in the South. It is a criminal statute carrying a maximum of 10 years imprisonment and a $5,000 fine.

Shortly after the arrests, citizens in the area began drives for donations to set up a legal defense fund to help the 21 pay for their legal battles and bond costs.

The three civil rights workers were driving from Meridian to Philadelphia on June 21 to investigate the burning of a rural Negro church. That afternoon, officers stopped them at Philadelphia on a speeding charge.

They were released from jail at 10:30 p.m., after paying $10 on the traffic charge. Price said he watched them drive away. They were never reported alive again.

Two days later, the burned-out remains of the trio's station wagon was found in the swamps some 15 miles northeast of Philadelphia.

Reports circulated that a tip paid to an informant — as much as $30,000 — led to the discovery of the bodies buried under 20 feet of dirt in the dam on property owned by Olen L. Burrage, 34, who was among the 21 later charged.

An autopsy report was not made public, but informed sources said bullets were found in all three victims.

Luther King Given Nobel Peace Prize

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., American Negro civil rights leader, accepted the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize today as "profound recognition that nonviolence is the answer to the crucial political and moral question of our time — the need for man to overcome oppression and violence without resorting to violence and oppression."

In companion ceremonies later in Stockholm, Sweden, Nobel awards in physics, chemistry and medicine were to be presented to two American scientists, an English woman, a German and two Russians.

Gunnar Jahn, chairman of the Norwegian Parliament's Nobel Committee, presented the gold medal and diploma in a ceremony at Oslo University on the 68th anniversary of the death of the donor, Alfred Nobel, Swedish inventor of dynamite.

King got the monetary sum of 273,000 Swedish kroner — $53,123 — and announced he had given it to the civil rights cause.

King got the monetary award and the third Negro to win the peace prize. He was honored for asserting the principle of nonviolence in the civil rights movement.

Burglary Suspect Held by Police

A man held by city police in connection with two attempted burglaries here Tuesday night was identified today as Lawrence Spencer, 33, of 227 N. Scioto St.

The entry attempts were at the W. J. Weaver & Son grocery wholesale firm at 126 N. Court St. and the Bus Station next door. Spencer was found by officers Wednesday morning hiding underneath a truck behind the Kenney Hannan Ford building.

According to police Spencer is on parole from a burglary conviction in Fairfield County. They said he also has served time on an illegal entry charge in Knox County.

Local police have been authorized to hold the man for parole authorities.

Volunteer Firemen Granted Bequest By 1915 Resident

EBENSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Allan A. Barker lived in this western Pennsylvania community years ago and after he left in 1915 nobody heard much of him.

But now he's well known in these parts. He has left a bequest to the Dauntless Volunteer Fire Co.

Just how sizeable the firemen didn't know until Wednesday night when attorneys told a special meeting that Barker left the fire company more than $100,000, consisting of property in the Bradenton, Fla., area and 750 shares of stock in the First National Bank of Ebensburg.

Barker was a rancher and financier in Manatee County Fla. He died in a Bradenton nursing home on Nov. 26 at the age of 82.

No one here recalls that he was a volunteer fireman.

Three Inducted Into U.S. Army

Three men were inducted into active service with the U. S. Army Tuesday by order of the Pickaway County Selective Service Board.

They are Charles A. Martin, Route 1; Robert A. Martindale, Route 1, Williamsport; and Ranson L. Justice, Atlanta.

2 Lacerations Treated

Charles Plummer, 17, Williamsport, lacerated the palm of his left hand while sharpening a knife on a stone. He was treated in the emergency room at Berger Hospital.

Also receiving emergency aid was Rofi Manbeavers, 16 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Manbeavers, 229 1/2 W. Mill St., she fell while running and lacerated her forehead.

Both were released following treatment.

Stock Mart Is Irregular

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market made an irregular recovery in active trading early this afternoon.

Following Wednesday's sharp setback there was selective buying in a fairly wide range of issues which had been battered down.

Plenty of stocks declined, however, and the gain on balance was very slight.

Steels and rails rebounded moderately. Rails continued to take some heart from the court-ordered delay of the threatened rail strike. Investment buying supported the steels in spite of the concern over the approaching union contract negotiations.

The tone was generally higher among motors, farm implements, nonferrous metals and utilities but chemicals were lower and the pattern was mixed among tobaccos, airlines, drugs and rubbers.

Outcome of Suit Remains Same

The Ohio Supreme Court yesterday let stand the refusals of Pickaway County Common Pleas Court and the Fourth District Court of Appeals to award Mrs. Chester A. Ramey damages for injuries received in an accident here.

The alleged injuries were received when Lawrence Mets' trash truck backed into her car April 18, 1960, while she was parked on E. Ohio St.

Mets was represented in the suit by Tom A. Renick and Allan Berger. A Columbus attorney represented Mrs. Ramey.

Electric Is Off

The South Central Rural Electric Co-op reported electricity in portions of its service area was shut off for a 32-minute period during the night. Spokesmen said the halt was due to insulators being changed at the substation on the Stoutsville Pike.

New Regime in Kremlin Bares Economic Policies

MOSCOW (AP) — After the ouster of Nikita Khrushchev, doubts were raised over what direction the new regime would take.

The new leaders have given the answer. They echoed Khrushchev's professed concern for more and better consumer goods.

The mass of figures, percentages and estimates presented to the Supreme Soviet appeared to have provided a clearer picture of the new Kremlin regimes' present economic policies.

The major outlines of these policies were:

Greater effort toward increasing the population's meager rations of food, housing, and consumer goods;

A de-emphasis on big chemistry investments;

A similar easing of investments in agriculture, probably in hope that the private plots which were recently restored to former levels will help fill food gaps, and

Economies where possible in defense spending.

These policy tenets probably will hold true until the new leadership gets its bearings and can make some decisions about priority scales for the upcoming 1966-70 five year plan.

Premier Alexei N. Kosygin clearly revealed that the faltering Soviet economy fell short of some of its major targets for 1964.

But instead of a program of austerity to make up for lost ground, Kosygin promised the masses to carry forward Khrushchev's campaign for more consumer goods.

Soviet military expenditures are to be cut to provide at least part of the costs of the bigger consumer goods program.

Finance Minister Vasily Garbuzov disclosed bigger appropriations than had been planned for housing construction, consumer goods industries, and social and cultural services.

Khrushchev last year rammed through top priority appropriations for the chemical industry which he promised would someday solve consumer goods and agricultural fertilizer problems.

To raise the money, he cut back housing construction, light industry and military appropriations, probably both direct and hidden.

Kosygin blamed the critical agricultural situation on Khrushchev's "serious mistakes."

He added that the new five-year plan "provides for investments and measures designed to overcome the lag in agricultural production completely within the next few years."

Chemistry still would have the highest planned rate of growth, he said. But his statements were markedly less enthusiastic than last year during the peak of a frenzied propaganda campaign to boost chemicals.

Crime on Increase in Cincinnati Area

CINCINNATI (AP)—Crime is continuing to rise in Cincinnati and the estimated 16,280 major crimes that will be recorded this year will be the highest in 38 years, says a police official.

Martin P. Geygan, assistant supervisor of police records, said the 1964 crime rate for the Queen City will show an increase of 19.2 per cent over 1963—the 11th straight year it has gone up. Geygan, in a report Wednesday, based his prediction on crimes committed in the first 11 months of this year and on anticipated crime during December.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

After 20 years of marriage, a problem has come up which threatens to destroy the foundation of our family. My husband, a stable member of the community, has suddenly made a total personality change. From a home-loving father, he has changed into a hard-drinking "man-about-town." Perhaps by coincidence this all seemed to start immediately after an operation on his prostate.

Our family physician suggested that he seek the advice of a psychoanalyst. He did so, but very reluctantly, because he was afraid that in a small community news would get around and it might affect his job. Now, after eight months of intensive analysis with my full cooperation and personal sacrifice, I have a severe problem. I am being totally excluded from any discussion of his progress, because I cannot even get an interview with "his" doctor. I am told by the doctor: "He is my patient. I can only deal with him."

You state in your column that "a psychological problem is no more a shame than any other illness." But in all other illnesses, the doctor will tell the family the condition of the patient and the progress of the illness. Why am I not allowed to take an active part in his recovery? My life depends on it. It may be surprising that a 50-year-old college graduate (I say this not as a distinction, but an explanation) should seek help from a columnist rather than from my own physician. The reason is that I want a totally impartial and unbiased opinion.

Mrs. L.L.R., California

Dear Mrs. R.: Your letter reflects many of the problems that families have when a member embarks on the process of psychoanalysis.

The fact that the change of personality occurred after a prostate operation is not unusual. Many men falsely believe that their masculinity and virility is altered after such an operation. Actually this operation was probably only the trigger that set off longstanding neurotic traits. The same thing might have occurred following any other crisis.

It is a testimonial to the strength of both of you that your husband, with your help, was able to begin the complicated process of psychoanalysis. Some schools of analysis feel that anyone other than the patient must be excluded. Others believe that members of the family should take an active part in the understanding of the patient's condition and progress.

More and more analysts are breaking away from the rigid rules and are drawing the family into the process of recovery. They know that no one member stands alone without affecting the lives of all other members of the family.

A patient who is ill with heart disease, tuberculosis, cancer or any other illness affects the lives of everyone close to him. They take an active role in his recovery by following all the instructions of his physician.

When a psychological problem as important as yours threatens the family structure, it does seem unfair to deny you the right of knowing how his condition is progressing. This does not mean that you should be told the intimate matters discussed between your husband and the analyst, or that any confidence should be violated. But you do not deserve to be shut out, anxiously guessing and wondering when and if your home will once again be returned to its normal happiness.

To the Editor:

Six years ago this Dec. 21, I was a patient in Berger Hospital. The reason: my daughter, Terry Lynn, was born.

I'm remembering something I heard. I think the most beautiful sound was the Carolers as they sang Christmas songs. As they walked down the halls, their voices fading away, is a sound I'll long remember. I wonder — do they still sing at the hospital?

MRS. JAMES AKISON

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt
Central Press Writer

A new cigaret, made of lettuce instead of tobacco, will soon be on the market, it's announced. The claim is the ciggie will be better for your health. Well, that's at least food for thought.

Who knows but when your next pack of smokes won't come to you from some southern plantation, but, instead, from your neighbors' truck garden?

A lettuce cigaret strikes us as something special, though actually a garden-variety smoke.

Advance word is that the new type fags will be available in a number of aromas, tastes and flavors, and mentholated or filtered, if you prefer. Since they're claimed to be so harmless we wonder if that filter may not be just for show?

And the man at the next desk who hasn't smoked since he was a senior in college says that maybe he'll give those new lettuce jobs a try. It might, he thinks, take him back to his salad days.

Punster Aitch Kay, on hearing about the lettuce ciggies, says he'd just as leaf smoke them as any other.

A Repeat of 1937?

"It's going through," said Franklin D. Roosevelt's irrepressible Tommy Corcoran about the Supreme Court packing plan back in 1937. Roosevelt had a whopping new majority in both houses of Congress at the time, and it did indeed look as if he had the votes for anything. Nevertheless, the packing plan was defeated after 168 days of bitter parliamentary maneuver.

The labor union chieftains are now exuding what can only be described as a Tommy Corcoran-type of confidence that they can get quick action in Congress to knock out the Taft-Hartley Act's 14B, which currently allows any individual state to pass a right-to-work law. But labor's Congressional supporters may have to reckon with the counter-strategy that is already forming, a counter-strategy which scents the possibility that a fight over 14B can be turned into the court pack plan of the new Johnson Administration.

Since there are forty Senators who come from right-to-work states, and since the unions have no absolute power over the rules committee or the labor committee in the House of Representatives, the counter-strategists have hopes that they can find Democrats to carry the ball. One gambit being considered is to "roll with the punch" when the unions insist on opening up the Taft-Hartley Act for revision. The idea would be to insist that if one section of Taft-Hartley is to be made subject to change, then other sections must also be open to amendment.

But what sort of amendment could help the counter-strategists? It so happens that the U. S. Supreme Court has ruled, in cases appealed from courts in Georgia and North Carolina, that union use of dues for political activity is an infringement of the civil rights of individual union members. The cases have been returned to the lower courts for consideration of damages to those who brought the suits originally. Now, to let a court ascertain the exact amount of damage to complaining union members, the unions would have to open their books to show what percentage of dues money has gone to support legitimate collective bargaining activity, and what percentage has been used to further labor's political aims. The unions, of course, balk at any effort to apply mathematics to their use of money.

There is where the counter-strategists think they may have the unions on the hip when it comes to opening up the Taft-Hartley Act to amendment. The counter-strategists are tentatively proposing to offer an amendment to the particular section of Taft-Hartley that now permits union shop agreements in states that don't specifically prohibit them. To the clause that now allows union shop agreements, the counter-strategists would add a proviso that would limit union shop recognition to unions that "agree to limit the collection of dues and assessments to an amount equal to the cost of carrying out collective bargaining."

This would force all union shop unions to operate in a goldfish bowl.

The counter-strategists are confident that the unions would rather forego a repeal of 14B than submit to a pitiless publicity that might keep them from paying full salaries to officials who spend part of their time in political "education."

There is a distinct possibility, of course, that Lyndon Johnson may prefer to string the unions along in the matter of 14B repeal. Johnson was around in 1937, and he surely recalls what the court packing plan did to shatter the Democratic harmony that had been built up by the astounding landslide of November, 1936. If the President gets any hint that a fight over 14B might become a party-splitting matter, he would certainly ask labor not to press the issue at the very outset of his new term.

By John Chamberlain

The unions, however, are hungry. The argument that they should be satisfied with such things as a new minimum wage law and medicare tied to social security does not go down with them. Minimum wage laws and medicare would benefit non-union men even more than union members, and the union leaders could hardly sell them to the rank and file as symbolic of union victory. Stronger meat is demanded, and the bruising Congressional battle of 1937 may very possibly be re-enacted.

SANTA and the SINGING TURTLE

Synopsis: Prince Chad, the Singing Turtle, and the Snowman arrive in Santa Land to attend the Christmas Music Festival.

CHAPTER SIX

Patrick Tweedlebees

"SANTA LAND!" read the big sign on the snow station. "We're really here!" exclaimed the Prince. "I can't believe it."

"I can," said the one-eyed Snowman, taking in deep breaths of the icy air. "I feel better already. Why, in this climate, I will last ten thousand years!"

"But where are the musicians?" wondered George. "I was sure I would hear them practicing."

"Let's go see!" cried Prince Chad.

He darted away from his slow, plodding companions and raced across the snow-covered fields past row on row of workshops, barns and stables. The house with smoke curling from the chimney. He knew this was Santa Claus' house.

"He walked all around it and peeped through the curtained windows. He tapped softly at the door. There was no answer."

George and the Snowman finally arrived. George said impatiently, "Knock louder, for goodness' sake!"

The Prince knocked and the Snowman pounded with his heavy fists and George tapped with his little tail. Suddenly the door swung open.

There stood Patrick Tweedlebees, a crooked-legged, bent-backed, nearsighted elf who clearly had just been awakened from a very fine sleep and did not at all like being disturbed.

"Who are you anyway?" Tweedlebees said fussily.

"Stop that hullabaloo!" he shouted. "Can't you see I'm working?"

The Prince was so astonished he stepped backwards, tripped over George and fell off the porch. The elf peered at him and said fussily, "Who are you anyway and what's that thing on your head?"

"I am Frederick Chadwick Anthony Matthew Christopher John," stammered the Prince. "The thing on my head is a crown because I am soon to be King of Razenpie. Could we see Santa Claus, please?"

"Santa Claus! He's gone to the Music Festival, as you should certainly know if you are about to be a king."

"The Music Festival!" cried George in alarm. "But we have come here to the Music Festival. I am to sing!"

"Sing if you wish but no one at the Festival will hear you," snapped Tweedlebees. "The Festival is in Fairyland. It begins tomorrow and you can never get there in time."

George was stunned with disappointment. He pulled his head inside his shell. Then he pulled his feet in and his tail too.

"Now see what you have done," said the Snowman towering over the elf. "You've broken his heart!"

"Me!" protested Tweedlebees angrily. "I'll have you know tomorrow is Christmas Eve and I have my hands full getting everything ready, doing all the work, talking all the responsibility while Santa is away having all the fun. Then you come along and blame me because you came to the wrong place! Well, I say, pooh to you!"

With that the elf went in the house and slammed the door.

The three visitors sat on the steps. The Prince said, "I never thought Santa Land would be like this." And the Snowman said, "I don't even want to stay here any more." George said nothing, but two big tears roled out from under his shell.

Suddenly the door flung open and Patrick Tweedlebees was back. "I can't stand this racket," he grumbled. "I'll send you to Fairyland. Make your racket there."

George's head darted from his shell. "You mean — you can get us there in time for me to sing?"

"I can see it's the only way I am to have any peace," snapped Tweedlebees. "Meet me at workshop number six in two hours and I will give you boots that will get you to Fairyland before tomorrow's dawn."

"Oh," said George gratefully. "I will sing for you now!"

"Spare me!" retorted Tweedlebees. "It's the least you can do." And turning on his heels he stalked off to workshop number six.

Yule Sales Up; So Is Shoplifting

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Christmas shoplifter may run into some new traps this holiday season.

But even closed circuit television, two-way radios and other modern devices can't stop all the pilferers—mostly amateurs—who work crowded stores.

An Associated Press survey during this heavy holiday shopping period, when shoplifting as well as sales tend to increase, shows that:

1. Shoplifters are using the same old methods.
2. Most stores have stepped up precautions against "boosters," as the thieves are called.
3. There appears to be an increase in shoplifting, despite the most modern safeguards.

The Better Business Bureau of Central Ohio says the most artful boosters appear to be women. Large pocketbooks, shopping bags, pockets and undergarments that are part of the female shoppers' ordinary costume contribute to their success.

One police official said a large percentage of women shoplifters are teen-age girls from "good families" who do it for "kicks."

One Cleveland department store executive said shoplifting is on the increase, mainly because of teen-agers who "think it's smart to come out of a big store with several items they didn't pay for."

A woman guard at a store added, "You'd be surprised where they hide the stuff."

Anti-shoplifting campaigns are such secrets many department stores decline to discuss safeguards against shoplifters.

But Shillito's in Cincinnati employs a protection setup that consists of a manager, 23 officers and two German shepherd dogs.

This staff uses closed-circuit television, two-way radios and IBM machines to battle pilfering.

The manager at the Cincinnati store says the national loss to thefts is around 1.8 per cent of total sales.

"Ours is less than 1 per cent," he says. It was around 1.3 per cent just three years ago. Those may be just percentage points to some people—but it is many thousands of dollars to us."

At Shillito's, IBM machines have told detection experts that Saturday is the worst day for shoplifting. And the afternoon is the worst time. And men and women's sportswear departments are the hardest hit.

The closed circuit television camera replaces watchmen by scanning locked warehouses, loading docks and dark corners. The dogs are used to flush burglars and shoplifters from stores after they close.

Other methods are used to combat the problem.

One Cleveland store shows its employees a new film which depicts techniques shoplifters use. This is an effort to make all workers conscious of the problem.

Another official said that most of those on store security staffs are women because a man can be spotted easily as a store detective in too many departments.

Roy Stage of the Columbus Retail Merchants Association says about 97 per cent of the people arrested for shoplifting are amateurs.

"The pros move from city to city and like to work alone," he said.

One professional, serving a prison term, puts it this way: "A professional shoplifter isn't too particular about what he steals so long as it meets two requirements; it has to be reasonably portable, and it has to be something he can sell for a good price."

Different store owners used varied approaches. The manager of Sears, Roebuck & Co. in Mount Vernon said his employees are issued pamphlets on ways to prevent shoplifting.

"Our people are aware of most of the shoplifters' tricks and we rely on their alertness," said manager Kenneth Gordon.

Another executive said sometimes store personnel get an assist from men waiting while their wives shop.

"These men sometimes look like floorwalkers and unwittingly help to prevent shoplifting."

"The shoplifters can steal just about anything they want to if they put their minds to it," a Springfield owner said.

We can trail someone all over the store and never see them get a thing, but when we finally stop them and check them, they'll have as many as a dozen different items hidden on them. It's amazing to watch them do it."

Several stores use large mirrors strategically situated to help detect shoplifters who may seek secluded corners in which to switch price tags or conceal stolen merchandise.

Another owner reports a variation of shoplifting—seeking refunds at check-out counters for merchandise that has been stolen. One Marion official said "if we spot a known shoplifter in our store, we notify other merchants through a telephone chain warning system so that they also may be on guard."

Several stores use bell system codes to alert their employees when a shoplifter is working the store.

One factor that may help is that more and more courts are sending shoplifters to jail, rather than making them pay fines.

In Shaker Heights, acting Judge John A. Fetterman said many smaller stores have been hit so hard "they are finding it difficult to stay in business."

One Canton operator says "it's the same old pattern of shoplifting—children and adults take things for their own use while the professional steals for niresale."

Another executive said "it is a known fact that more goods are stolen by employees than by outsiders."

A detective in Hamilton believes that advance publicity that plain clothes officers will be in stores makes the shoplifter "think twice before attempting to pilfer."

A Middletown merchant put it this way, "shoplifters are the cleverest people on earth. You can't catch them at new methods they are using until they already have developed even newer methods."

Perhaps the biggest innovation to the shoplifting trade this holiday season is the hairspray addict.

Merchants in Akron and Barberton agree that all too often a cute teen-age girl looking at hair spray is planning to steal, not buy.

"This reason is that a girl with one of those bouffant hairdos uses about a can of hair spray a week," said one executive. "And there are plenty of teen-agers who just can't afford the dollar expenditure."

Another executive said "it is a known fact that more goods are stolen by employees than by outsiders."

Holiday Decorations
Highlight Yule Party

Decorations in keeping with the season created a holiday atmosphere in the home of Mrs. Karl Seyfert, 425 Wood Lane when members of the Pickaway County Garden Club met for their annual Christmas Party.

Mrs. J. P. Moffitt was responsible for the two door swags. Mrs. Luther Bower made the hall arrangement. Mrs. Richard Jones decorated the coffee table and Mrs. Kenneth Hannan designed the centerpiece for the dining table.

Christmas tree ornaments made by members to be exchanged were judged by Mrs. Hannan and Mrs. David Craven. Mrs. Ned Harden was awarded first place for the ornament made with the most living material. Mrs. John Mast, second, the most traditional; Miss Ruth Montellus, third, most contemporary.

EUB Class
Holds Annual
Yule Party

The Loyal Daughters Class of the First EUB Church, met for their annual Christmas party at the Pickaway Arms, E. Mound St.

Mrs. Mary Ann Willoughby, vice-president, presided for the short business meeting, and plans for the Christmas basket were completed. Members were asked to bring canned goods or staples to the church.

Thirty members and three guests, the Rev. and Mrs. O. F. Gibbs and Mrs. Nellie Burgess, enjoyed a gift exchange. Gifts were presented from the class to Mrs. Mae Hawes, teacher; Mrs. Catherine Martin, assistant teacher and Miss Gladys Noggle, president. They in turn gave each member a Christmas remembrance.

Rev. Gibbs gave the devotions using the Christmas story as recorded in St. Luke.

Christmas Party
Slated by Guild

Members of Berger Hospital Guild No. 21 will meet 7:30 p.m. Monday in the home of Mrs. Collis Young, 311 E. Main St., for a Christmas party.

WCTU Birthplace
To Get First Beer

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP) — A hearty chorus of "Drink, Drink, Drink" may soon swell from the rathskeller of Oberlin College—not far from where the Women's Christian Temperance Union was started in 1874.

Beer will soon be available on campus—the first time in the 132-year history of the school that beer has been allowed on campus, let alone sold there. This city was the birthplace of the WCTU. No alcoholic beverage is sold anywhere in town.

Faculty members Tuesday approved the sale of 3.2 beer. In the 19th century, the school banned such "strong and unnecessary drinks" as tea and coffee.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

It's Not Logical, Lady!

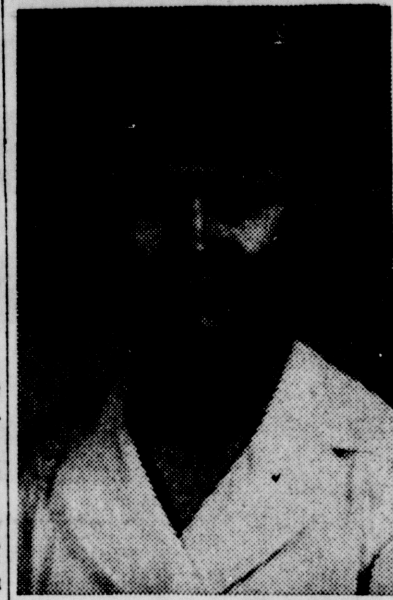

DEAR ABBY: For two years I was a widow with five children under 12. Then I married a man who claimed he loved me very much, but he acts like he has someone on the side. He was married before, and told me he divorced his wife because she was so cold. Believe me, he can't use that excuse about me. He has the kind of job that he can leave any time. He seems to have so many unscheduled and late business appointments that I am suspicious. I've never found any proof, like lipstick on his clothes or telephone numbers in his pockets, but I've got a feeling there's somebody else. Could it be my imagination?

SUSPICIOUS

DEAR SUSPICIOUS: It must be! Any man who, after one unsuccessful marriage, tries it again with a widow with five children (under 12 yet!) has got to be mad about the woman.

DEAR ABBY: This has happened to me twice already and I want to know the reason. I have been invited to and have attended two bridal showers. Both were very nice, but I was not invited to the main event—the wedding. Is this proper etiquette? Or is it just plain ignorance? I know some other ladies who have received the same treatment. Both these brides had big church weddings and receptions following, but some of us who were invited to showers were not good enough for the main event. Sign me—NOT GOOD ENOUGH

DEAR NOT: Some "showers" lately have degenerated into a big "collection" in which nobody seems to care who gets soaked. If you were "good enough" to be invited to the shower, it seems to me that unless the wedding was limited only to family and a few very close friends, you should have been "good enough" for the wedding.

DEAR ABBY: With all the modern packaging, why is it that when a person buys a pound of brown sugar it has to be repackaged immediately after it has been opened or the next time you want to use it you'll have a block of brown "cement"?

I am mad. I just smashed my finger with a hammer trying to break up a block of brown sugar. I am sure the brown sugar package has not changed in 100 years. Please print this, Abby. It might wake up the people who package it.

DEAR KAY: This is not a household hints column, but if you transfer the brown sugar into an airtight jar, put a little wad of damp paper toweling in the jar, and keep it in your refrigerator, you'll not have any problem.

DEAR ABBY: There's a television program for kids with a talking goldfish who gives advice. He is sort of the DEAR ABBY of television but, of course, they don't call him that. Why do you suppose anyone would write to a goldfish for advice?

DEAR ROBB: I'll bite.

More than one hundred grangers and guests were present this week when Star Grange celebrated its 25th anniversary in the Monroe School auditorium.

The room was decorated in keeping with the Christmas season. Lee Kern, worthy master, conducted the business session and heard various reports. The secretary, Helen Schleich read an invitation to an open house Dec. 27 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McKinley, 2971 Piedmont Road, Fairborn. They are members of Star Grange and will celebrate their Golden Wedding anniversary.

State Master and Mrs. Byron Frederick were present and gave a few remarks. Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Crouse, deputies of Madison County, expressed their pleasure at being present. Mr. and Mrs. John F. Dowler were also present and complimented Star Grange on their 25 years of active service. Masters of several granges were present and extended congratulations from their granges.

Mrs. Clyde Michel, lecturer, opened her program with the seating of all past masters that were present. They were Francis Furniss, Paul Long, Lawrence Reid, Carroll Reid and Harold Furniss. She also honored the original drill team of Mrs. Lawrence Reid, Mrs. Herman Porter, Laura Long, Mrs. Francis Furniss and Mrs. Helen Phillips.

Mrs. Herman Porter gave the history of the origin of the Grange and Bill Rihl dedicated his piano solo, "When You Wish Upon a Star" to the grange. The group sang, "Long, Long Ago" and John F. Dowler presented the 25 year pins and certificates. A local youth group composed of Janet, Joyce and Jimmy Davis and Jimmy Armentrout accompanied by Joy Hamilton sang, "America—Our Heritage" and Mrs. Michel read a poem "So Softly Radiant".

Carroll Reid sang "Memories" and a tableau, "Away In A Manger" under the direction of Mrs. Porter was presented on the stage, with Herman Porter and Lawrence Reid were men; Jeannie Finch, Mary; Robert Morgan, Joseph; and Wilbur Beathard, Paul Long and Dwight Reid as shepherds. Joyce Davis sang the song accompanied at the piano by Janet Davis. Mrs. Michel closed her program with a poem on Christmas and group singing "Jingle Bells".

Then Santa appeared and presented each child with a treat. Refreshments were served, with Mrs. Porter and Mrs. Dowler presiding at the tea and coffee service. The anniversary cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Dwight Reid and Mrs. Paul Moore.

MASTER VALENTINE

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Valentine 112 Fairview Ave., are the parents of a 7-pound 2½-ounce son born 7:04 a. m. today in Berger Hospital.

News of World in Brief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — John Robert Dunno's hair is a matter of principle now, his mother said today.

Dunno, 17-year-old high school senior, was out of classes for the second day while his mother, Mrs. Robert Dunno, studied how to proceed in her fight to get him back in school—long hair and all.

"There's no law that says you can't wear your hair the way you want it," said Mrs. Dunno. "To me, now it's principle."

School officials disagreed. Principal Harold Washburn refused to admit Dunno to South High School here Tuesday when he appeared to enroll as a transfer student.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Police are looking for two men who took their pastime too seriously.

Detectives said the men were in the High Life Cafe last night engaged in a "beer betting contest" on a bowling machine game, the object being that the loser would buy the next round.

But instead of buying beer, the unhappy loser whipped out a revolver and pumped five rounds into the machine. Patrons scurried for cover. The two men just turned and walked out.

The game was a total loss.

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — John W. Butenko and Igor A. Ivanov are scheduled to be sentenced Dec. 18 for conspiring to commit espionage.

The charge, one of three on which Butenko was convicted Dec. 2, carries a maximum penalty of death.

Butenko, 39, an American engineer, and Ivanov, 34, a Russian chauffeur, were convicted of conspiring to relay U.S. Air Force secrets to the Soviet Union.

Both also were convicted of conspiring to violate the law requiring registration or foreign agents. On a third count against Butenko, he was found guilty of acting as an unregistered agent for Russia. These charges carry maximum sentences of five and 10 years imprisonment, respectively.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — Susan Kaye Dickenson and Smokey the bear are now in partnership.

Susan, 11, recently wrote a letter to President Johnson with this suggestion:

If service station attendants would offer to empty car ashtrays for customers, more people might use them instead of creating fire hazards by flinging cigarette butts out the window.

The Forest Service replied for the President.

"As a result of your suggestion," the letter said, "the folks in Smokey Bear's headquarters will be working with some of the major oil companies to launch a campaign whereby service station attendants will offer to empty ashtrays."

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Before settling down for the night, salesman T. L. Flanagan, 67, of Dallas left his motel room and drove to buy a magazine.

As he returned, Flanagan mistook a swimming pool patio between two cars for an empty parking spot.

The car skidded on the wet paving and dived into the pool. Flanagan waded ashore as the vehicle sank.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Mayor's Committee for Noise Abatement has come up with a solution to the problem of loud radio playing in public places.

It suggested the radio fans use earphones.

The recommendation follows the filing of assault charges against a college history professor accused of hitting a woman bus passenger with her radio when she wouldn't turn it down.

NEW YORK (AP) — Malcolm X, the former Black Muslim leader, was acquitted Wednesday of an eight-month-old speeding charge.

A motorcycle patrolman said he had clocked the Negro official going 55 miles an hour on the Triborough Bridge, which has a speed limit of 40.

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — King Baudouin of Belgium has named Col. Charles Laurent paratroop commander, as his aide de camp for Laurent's action in the Congo.

Laurent led the 600 Belgian paratroops who freed about 2,000 white hostages from rebel hands in Stanleyville and Paulis with the aid of the U.S. Air Force.

ROME (AP) — Unions called 11,000 Italian journalists out on nationwide strike today, plunging the country into a seven-day news blackout.

The government radio-television network and weekly magazines also were hit by the contract dispute. Only foreign-language dailies were still publishing.

The newsmen are seeking a five-day week, one day less than at present, and higher salaries based on length of service.

Monroe Advisory Council Meets

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Follrod were hosts for the Monroe Twp. Advisory Council No. 10 when the group met Wednesday evening for their December meeting.

Dale Stubbs, discussion leader, presented the topic, "Strengthening Our Farm Organization," which was read and discussed. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served to Mr. and Mrs. Elbee Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Dennis, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Furniss, Miss Laura Long, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tallman, Mr. and Mrs. William Davis, Mrs. Ernest Sheets and Dale Stubbs.

The January meeting will feature the annual ham supper. It will be held in the church basement.

Ike, Nixon Advise Goldwater Burch Must Pull More Than Just Majority

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon have told Sen. Barry Goldwater that his hand-picked GOP chairman must have a mandate, not just a majority, to stay at the helm of the party.

Nixon relayed that word after a summit talk Wednesday with the former president and the party's defeated nominee for the White House. The three party leaders met for an hour in Eisenhower's Waldorf Towers suite. Then Nixon and the former president talked separately.

Goldwater said the three all hope the rift between GOP moderates, some of them out to oust Republican National Chairman Dean Burch, and the party's conservative wing can be healed before the National Committee meets in Chicago Jan. 22 and 23.

Th committee will decide then whether to keep Burch as chairman.

Both Eisenhower and Nixon said they told Goldwater the party needs a broadly based leadership in the months ahead.

Nixon put it this way: "We feel, and Sen. Goldwater agreed, that the national committee must have broad-based support — not unanimity, but a majority of one is not enough."

He made the comment after telling newsmen that Burch's own polls indicate the chairman now has the National Committee votes he needs to hold onto the post Goldwater gave him.

Nixon said neither he nor Eisenhower will say or do anything publicly to influence the committee's decision.

"We do not have a candidate for the chairmanship," he said. "I am not prejudging what the National Committee should do."

Eisenhower said later, "We are going to have to have a leadership that satisfies by and large all of the sections of the party and that's the committee's responsibility."

The three GOP leaders spoke separately after their meeting while Burch waited across the hall from the Eisenhower suite. The chairman said he had wanted to be on hand in case he was needed.

Goldwater spoke to newsmen first, standing on a chair in the packed lobby of the hotel to make a statement with no questions accepted.

"We see no impossible task ahead," he said. "We feel that unity can be achieved by both sides giving in this case, and that is what the three of us dedicated ourselves to achieving in the months ahead."

"We, all of us, want to see no blood dropping on the ground," Eisenhower called for flexibility on the part of all Republicans.

"If you are going to get a consensus anywhere you have got to be a little bit flexible," he said. "You can't put a square peg into a round hole."

Eisenhower said Goldwater is the titular head of the party and must take the lead in the drive for unity.

"We were very anxious that there be no blood letting," he said. "No vindictiveness to further antagonize any portion of the party."

Committee members confirmed reports that Goldwater and Rep. William E. Miller, the GOP vice-presidential nominee, have kept the phone lines hot trying to drum up support for Burch at the forthcoming Jan. 22-23 showdown meeting of the committee in Chicago.

Miller, who preceded Burch as national chairman, denied he was making any canvass of the committee.

"I'm just practicing law," he said.

Republican governors already have proposed setting up a policy council. Such a move has been approved by House minority leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana. Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois has indicated a willingness to consider the proposal. Although some of the governors have called for the replacement of Burch, they thus far have been unable to find a candidate willing to have his name put up as a rival.

Weekly Food Review

Fryer chickens are one of the best-buy offerings in the nation's food markets as the week-end approaches. So are broiler chickens and some beef and pork cuts.

Carrots and onions are in especially abundant supply. There's also plenty of cabbage, cauliflower, lettuce, peppers, potatoes, and sweet potatoes. Potatoes from Southern farms are beginning to move to market.

Oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, and bananas are in good supply.

One big Eastern supermarket chain will offer fryer chickens at 25 cents a pound in its New York area outlets.

The same store's other week-end meat specials will be California roasts at 59 cents, boneless chuck at 69 and pork shoulders at 33.

Beef steaks and pork roasts were reported in good supply throughout the nation.

the loss of dollars to other lands markedly lower in the first three months, even more sharply higher in the next three and contracting slightly in the third. A 10-nation monetary club protected both the dollar and the pound and held the U.S. gold loss to a minimum — which was news in itself.

'Hot Line' Tests Bring Some Cultural Exchanges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Moscow-Washington hot line has developed a sort of cultural exchange.

In testing the circuit, U. S. military operators sometimes send excerpts from encyclopedias across the 5,200-mile Teletype link to the Soviet capital. And, as Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko said at the United Nations, the Russians transmit sections of Ivan Turgenev's first novel, "Notes of a Hunter."

The U.S. and Soviet operators occasionally have exchanged greetings on special occasions.

They swapped Happy New Year wishes for 1964 and there was another exchange on the first anniversary of the hot line last September.

The hot line was set up during the Kennedy administration as a device for instantaneous emergency communication between the Soviet and U.S. heads of state.

President Johnson has retained the link and the Defense Department said there has been no change in procedure since the recent Soviet government turnover which ousted Nikita Khrushchev as premier.

There is a great reluctance in the Pentagon to say anything about the hot line's operation.

The Teletype machines at the Washington end of the circuit are in the tightly guarded National Military Command Center in the Pentagon. When necessary, the link can be extended to Johnson's ranch or other places the President may be.

The hot line complex in the center is manned by five teams, each made up of one officer and two noncommissioned officers. All services are represented. The teams work eight-hour shifts around the clock.

The line is tested every hour, day in and day out. A bell sounds and the teletype connection between the Pentagon and the Kremlin comes alive.

The Pentagon said the U.S. test messages consist basically of the standard "quick brown fox jumped over the lazy dog's back."

"This sometimes is varied with the transmission of various random unclassified writings depending upon the discretion of the operator," the Pentagon said.

Informants said encyclopedia excerpts were used in the tests, but they did not disclose what subject matter was covered.

In an apparent joking vein Gromyko said the Turgenev texts aroused "great interest toward Russian classical literature on the part of the American operators."

How did the Americans react to this flow of Russian literature?

"They merely observed it," the Defense Department said.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — In a year of striking economic gains, 10 business news stories stand out.

Here, in one man's opinion, are the 10 top business news stories of 1964 — some of them cliffhanger serials with the final chapters still to come.

1. Stock prices climbed fast and suffered some dizzy spells. Trading volume set records and so did prices as measured by popular averages. The Dow-Jones 30 industrials topped 800 in March and added 92 more points by mid-November. But markets took some sharp drops, too: in August when American and North Vietnamese naval vessels clashed; in October when Nikita Khrushchev was toppled; in November when the British pound sterling was raided by speculators.

2. Federal tax rates were cut. Results showed up in take-home pay in March. At first the money went toward paying off debts and increasing savings, but by late summer all spending was on the way up.

3. International money markets had a bad scare in October and November and American borrowers had some anxious days until President Johnson intervened to hold the interest line. Britain's fast deteriorating economic situation brought a run on the pound. The new Labor government tried a 15 per cent import tax, then boosted the bank rate to 7 per cent from 5 per cent. But it took a $3-billion fund by 10 other nations to halt the raid. Short-term rates in the United States also were boosted to prevent loss of dollars to Britain.

4. Stock traders clashed with federal regulators. The New York Stock Exchange and the Securities and Exchange Commission came eyeball to eyeball over curbing the activities of floor traders who act for their own accounts, and the SEC won that one. The giant over-the-counter market for unlisted stock got a milder than expected crackdown, but also was subjected to more federal supervision.

5. Labor made some impressive dollar gains and set out on new negotiating paths. A generous pact with the autoworkers sparked talk of inflation ahead and inspired the souls in the stock market. Steel union emphasis on changing working conditions at the mills hinted of troubles ahead and customers began stockpiling steel. A rail strike threatened off and on all year, and labor strike on the docks was another cliffhanger.

6. Corporate profits soared. Gains were scored in each of the first three quarters and many companies set records. Dividends increased, too.

7. Government-business relations took a new turn. President Johnson won an unusual amount of support from business executives during his campaign.

8. Giant stock offerings and a record number of stock splits enlivened the year. In February AT&T issued rights to buy $1.2 billion of common stock, a record offering. Investors also snapped up the offer of stock in Communications Satellite Corp. in June and pushed up prices when it was listed on the exchange.

9. Prosperity made news. The business upswing neared completion of its fourth year, a record for peacetime. Climbing to new highs were personal income, industrial production, Gross National Product, and consumer debt.

10. The U.S. deficit in international payments had sharp ups and downs. This serial story, of several years running, showed

A CUSTODY BRAND O' TROUBLE—Actress Anna Kashfi shows bruises she claims were inflicted by rough handling while being taken to the pokies in Van Nuys, Calif., after a big ruckus with ex-husband actor Marlon Brando in the swank Bel Air Sands Hotel in West L. A. over custody of their son Dev. Brando got the boy by court order, and she ran screaming around the hotel, slapping at various people, and wound up charged with battery against Police Sgt. Ed Hall. She was running around clad in this nightie and robe, and that's the way she went to jail—for an hour.

Some Habits Are Changed As Nuns Work in Factory

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Some habits had to be changed—in more ways than one—when two Michigan nuns went to work in a factory.

For instance: "The first day we were there something went wrong on a job, and one of the men let loose with a loud and candid comment. You could almost hear an elbow hitting his ribs," said Sister Jean Lawrence of East Lansing.

She and Sister Janina of Detroit also told, in an interview Wednesday, how they had to modify the large sleeves on the habits they wore and take some extra material out of the skirts for safety and convenience.

"When we arrived at the plant to start work, it was just like dropping a bomb," Sister Jean Lawrence recalled.

Their going to the Nobis Decorating Co. plant in North Canton, Ohio, this summer was the idea of Mother Genevieve, superior at the Dominican motherhouse in Adrian.

6 Hepatitis Cases Reported in Clermont

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP)—Health officials say they do not fear an outbreak of hepatitis in Clermont County schools although six cases have been reported in the Bethel School the last six weeks.

Dr. Albert W. Van Sickle, county health commissioner, said the number of cases in Bethel schools is higher than in other school systems, but the cases have followed no definite pattern and are not centered in any one class, family or area.

Ex-Executive Rapped in Court Action

CINCINNATI (AP)—A former executive has been held in contempt of court for refusing to answer questions in a federal grand jury investigation of alleged gambling in southern Ohio.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge John W. Peck issued the contempt citation Wednesday against Earl Coplon, who resigned this week as vice president of the Shoe Corp. of America of Columbus, Ohio.

Judge Peck also denied bond to Coplon, but he was released over night on his own recognizance on an order by the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The appeals court said Coplon was to report this morning when it was to rule on the bond refusal by Judge Peck.

Judge Peck cited Coplon after he consistently refused to answer questions put to him by the grand jury. Coplon refused to answer on grounds, he said, that he might incriminate himself.

New Personal Tax Rule Is Said Illegal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A common pleas court judge has ruled that a 1963 personal property tax bill is unconstitutional.

Judge Joseph M. Harter said Wednesday that the bill is contrary to Ohio and federal constitutions.

The bill changed the percentage of a firm's inventory and contesting firms held it gave an unfair competitive advantage to companies with small inventories.

Those that challenged the bill included the Kroger Co., the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., and Colonial Stores, Inc.

The three contended that the bill denied them equal protection of the law guaranteed by the constitution.

Prior to October 1963, personal property held for sale was carried on tax lists at 70 percent of its actual value. The new law set the tax at 66 percent of value on the first $100,000 of inventory for 1964.

This was to be decreased by four per cent annually on the first $100,000 until 1968 when the tax would be based on 50 percent of value.

OFF TO POLAND—Henia Wysocki, 13, who fled her home Nov. 13 to escape returning to Poland with her parents, has decided she misses them and is leaving relatives in Bloomfield, Conn., to go to them. She wants to return to the U.S. when she is 18.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson likes to be liked, particularly by the business community, some of whose biggest maharajas were in his corner in the last election.

As he put it last week: "Over the past 12 months I have said many times that it is my hope — and purpose — that government and business should operate in partnership, not as antagonists. That will always be my goal."

This is in keeping with his philosophy of "let's reason together."

President Kennedy felt the same way until he felt the captains in the steel industry got unreasonable. Then he banged heads and things never were the same again.

Now Johnson has banged heads with the bankers, but he wore a rubber cushion, and it worked.

But then Johnson wasn't in the same pickle as Kennedy. So even though everything ended well and pleasantly this time there's no telling how he'd act if the situations were the same. They just weren't.

The trouble Johnson ran into started in England where the interest rate was raised on money borrowed from the government to curb borrowing and, as a result, slow down the drain on British reserves.

Right away the American Federal Reserve raised the interest rate on loans it charges to U.S. commercial banks. There was some danger in this:

Would American commercial banks in turn raise the interest rate on loans to American business and industry? If so, this might mean less borrowing, less business expansion, and damage to this prosperous economy.

Sure enough, four banks raised their rate. It didn't require radar to see other bankers waiting in the wings to do the same. Right at the start of Johnson's new administration, the economy was in danger of a dive.

The President's problem was to get tough without doing it the way Kennedy got tough. Last week he talked to the Business Advisory Council, made up of more than 100 presidents and board chairmen of leading corporations.

He made a long speech on how he wished to get along with business, how good the economy is, how inflation could spoil the rosy glow, and how business and government should work together.

But right in the middle of it, and in just a few paragraphs, he took dead aim at the bankers. Although being very pleasant, he warned against the danger of "upping lending rates. He said:

"I am confident that American bankers will consider the long-term interest of the nation in sustaining a healthy and vigorous rate of economic growth."

All this was intended to show he wasn't interfering with free enterprise, and he wasn't giving orders, but the bankers got the message. There was a little squawking, but not much. And no more banks raised rates.

In doing this, Johnson was doing what Kennedy had tried to do in a nice way two years ago. But in the end Kennedy had to get rough and tough. Before Johnson's White House years are up he may be doing likewise. He hopes not.

Two years ago, in his desire to prevent a wage price spiral from getting started, Kennedy pressured the steel industry and the steelworkers' union into seeing things his way. Or he thought he did.

He persuaded the union, in its negotiations with the industry, to sign a new contract that gave them some fringe benefits but no wage increase. In exchange for this, Kennedy thought, the industry wouldn't raise prices.

But the industry did, right after the contract was signed. In fact the biggest steelman of them all, Roger M. Blough, board chairman of the U.S. Steel Corp., made a special trip to the White House to tell Kennedy.

The President was reported to have received the news with "controlled fury." It was a lot less controlled when he went before a news conference the

Ruth Lyons Is Felled by 'Exhaustion'

CINCINNATI (AP)—For the past 25 years thousands of loyal fans have heeded the pleas of a popular radio and television hostess and contributed $3 million for the benefit of hospitalized children.

Now their leader is ill—at the height of her annual "Christmas Fund" drive—and must spend the holidays in bed.

Ruth Lyons, affectionately called "mother" by thousands of women in Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana who listen to her daily 90-minute "50-50 Club" on WLW radio and the Crosley Broadcasting Corp.'s four-station television hook up, is suffering from "complete physical and emotional exhaustion." Doctors say she must remain in bed until sometime after Jan. 1.

Miss Lyons' illness comes at the peak of what appears to be the biggest "Christmas Fund" since she started the annual campaign in 1939. The money is used to buy toys for hospitalized children and purchase equipment for children's hospitals in the three states served by Crosley.

Last year's collections totaled nearly $400,000. This year's fund so far has reached $280,000 and is ahead of last year's pace.

Alcan To Establish New Cleveland Unit

NEW YORK (AP)—Aluminum Limited (Alcan) has announced establishment of a new aluminum sheet fabricating subsidiary that will be headquartered in Cleveland with a payroll of nearly 2,000 workers.

The subsidiary, to be known as Alcan Aluminum Corp., will take over the operation of six sheet rolling and finishing plants in five states, including one at Warren, Ohio. The Warren millers and Chemical Corp., will produce a wide range of cold-rolled sheet products.

Akron Woman Loses Bartender Lawsuit

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The Ninth District Court of Appeals has ruled that an Akron woman cannot collect damages for injuries suffered in a fall by claiming a bartender wrongfully supplied her with too much liquor.

The ruling Wednesday upheld a decision by Judge John M. Kelly of Summit County Common Pleas Court, who dismissed a $50,000 damage suit brought by Miss Norma Palmer against American Legion Post 625.

next day and denounced the steel industry with hot contempt.

This was a terrible blow to an industry that spends a lot of money on public relations. The steel bosses caved in and called off the price increase. But business, or some of it, got mad at Kennedy.

He spent a lot of time later telling business he wasn't mad at it.

Reapportioning Accord Reached

smaller counties of less than that population whereby they would share a representative with another county or part of another county. Also included is a sub-districting formula for large counties with many times the specified population ratio.

The State Apportionment Board, now made up of the governor, secretary of state, and auditor of state, would be expanded to include four members of the legislature—one member of each party from each house.

Senate Democrats put up a valiant struggle to amend the resolution but were destined to defeat by Republicans who maintained an air-tight barrier after their final caucus.

Led by Senate Minority Leader Frank W. King, D - Lucas, Democratic senators offered five amendments, including one by King that would have revamped the entire proposal.

Their principal argument was that the resolution would not stand in court.

Sen. Edmund A. Sargus, D-Belmont, asserted the proposal would give a "promiscuous license to gerrymandering" to the apportionment board which would be faced with "too much discriminatory power and too much temptation."

Sen. Charles J. Carney, D-Mahoning, expressed belief that "we will be back here before too long doing the job again, probably by court order."

Before its session ended, the House added its approval to a Senate-adopted resolution for a $290 million bond issue for higher education facilities and other capital improvements.

The lower chamber also passed bills allowing legislators to accept part-time teaching jobs at state-supported schools and permitting a Dayton park district to resubmit a tax levy in the May primary.

Senators, before adjourning until 1:30 p.m. today, passed a House-approved bill combining the divisions of forestry and reclamation in the Department of Natural Resources. In passing however, it was stripped of its emergency clause.

Bills on the Senate calendar for today include measures to permit the Development Department to accept federal planning grants, allow appointment of three additional oil and gas well inspectors, and permit the governor to appoint an authenticating officer to help with gubernatorial paper work.

Ohio voters will be asked at the polls next May to approve a constitutional change reshaping Ohio legislative districts.

The revisions will mean that starting in 1966—if the voters approve—the method used to determine membership in the Ohio House will be changed. The State Senate would not be affected.

Final legislative action on reapportionment, taken Wednesday night in the Senate, resulted from recent decisions by the U.S. Supreme Court calling for representation on the basis of virtually equal areas of population.

Ohio, because of the 1903 Hanna Amendment which provided every county at least one state representative regardless of population, stood clearly at odds with the decree.

The Legislature, after receiving a study by the Legislative

Service Commission, came up with this plan:

A divisor of 140 will be used to divide into Ohio's 1960 population (the last federal census), and this will give a population ratio of roughly 69,000. Each ratio of 69,000 would be entitled to one seat in the house. At present the divisor is 100 and the ratio 97,000.

Smaller counties with less than 69,000 population—now entitled to a seat of their own—would have to share a representative with another county or part of another county.

The larger counties, some with many times the population ratio, would face a more complicated system.

They could be entitled to one representative for each population ratio but an equal number of representatives would have to be elected at-large from each congressional district in the county.

Some counties with metropolitan areas include more than one congressional district.

In the case of odd numbers where equal distribution among the congressional districts would be impossible, the balance would be elected from the county at-large.

Say, for instance, that Cuyahoga County with its four congressional districts would be entitled to 23 representatives. Five would be elected at-large from each congressional district and the other three from the county at-large.

As for the shaping of districts involving more than one county, this would be left up to the State Apportionment Board.

Under the proposed constitutional change, the board would be increased from its present three members to seven. The governor, auditor and secretary of state now make up the board. The amendment would add to the board four members of the Legislature, a Democrat and Republican from each house, to be appointed by the leader of each house.

The proposal calls for general guidelines to be followed by the board in allocating seats. These include not crossing county boundaries unless necessary and forming districts which are compact and as similar in economic and community interests as possible.

Reds Claim U.S. Warships Shelled Village

TOKYO (AP) — Communist North Viet Nam charged that three U.S. and South Vietnamese warships shelled a North Vietnamese village for 15 minutes.

Peking's New China News Agency, in a broadcast monitored here, said a protest was filed with A. M. Rahman, Indian chairman of the three-nation control commission in Hanoi by Col. Ha Van Lau, chief of the liaison mission of the North Vietnamese army high command.

The Chinese agency, quoting a Hanoi dispatch, said that in the protest Lau said "on the night of Dec. 8, the U.S. and the South Viet Nam authorities once again sent three warships to cross the temporary military demarcation line and enter the territorial waters of the Democratic Republic of Viet Nam."

"At 1:30 a.m. on Dec. 9, these ships fired 20mm, 40mm and 57mm shells on Vinh Thai village in Vinh Lanh area for 15 minutes," it said.

The North Vietnamese message did not mention damage or casualties nor did it identify the warships it claimed conducted the bombardment.

TODAY In History

Today is Thursday, Dec. 10, the 345th day of 1964. There are 21 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1832, President Andrew Jackson issued his proclamation on nullification, strongly stating the government position support an indissoluble Union. It ended a threat by South Carolina to resort to arms in fighting federal tariff acts.

On this date
In 1898, Spain ceded Cuba, Puerto Rico, Guam and the Philippines to the United States in a treaty ending the Spanish American War.

In 1941, Japanese torpedo planes sank the British carrier Repulse and the battleship Prince of Wales off the coast of Malaya.

In 1942, Allied forces captured the Japanese base at Gona, New Guinea.

Ten years ago — The U.N. General Assembly voted to condemn Red China for jailing American airmen.

Five years ago — President Charles de Gaulle, visiting African republics of the French community, promised them eventual full sovereignty.

One year ago—Congressional action was completed on a bill providing more than $1 billion to aid college building.

Vietnamese Youths Reveal How They Were Able To Escape War

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two young Vietnamese sat in a coffee shop on Saigon's Le Loi Boulevard this week comparing notes on how they had evaded the horrors of war.

Both are 21 years old. Both come from good families. Both wore the tight-fitting tapered slacks that are the rage here now, and both sported ducktail haircuts.

"They almost got me," one laughed. "I got as far as the Quang Trung induction center, but I never made it through the physical. A friend had told me how you can rub metal powder into your chest and it shows up in the X-rays. It looks just like tuberculosis."

"I wasn't so lucky," the youth's companion said. "I was sworn in and all, but last month they were grabbing so many people there just wasn't room for all of us at Quang Trung. After a couple days of starvation they sent me home and told me to wait. I'll wait all right — about 50 years. I figure I can hide out in Dalat or some place."

At an office in a big military compound in another part of town a 38-year-old captain stared listlessly out of his window at the sun-scorched street below.

"Ah, how much I would give to get out of this," he said. "I suppose I'm lucky I don't have to fight, and in the last year I have been promoted twice, but I'm sick of it all the same. For the enlisted men it's only three years, if they're lucky. But for the officers it's forever. Once they get you as an officer you never get out until the end of the war or until you're too old to work. As for the war, my children will be fighting it and their children too."

The sun also was beating down on a grimy yellow stucco building about 30 miles south of Saigon. The concrete supports under the building left a space of about three feet between the floor beams and the ground and about 40 troops were camped in this space. It affords protection from the sun and rain if not from the rats.

The building had been taken over as a headquarters for one of the units involved in pacifying the Mekong River delta. It was siesta time and hammocks were strung under the building, in the building and from trees all around.

In a cubicle in the building, a young Vietnamese artillery officer was dozing on a cot, a cloud of mosquitoes droning over his head. A U.S. adviser strode in, his face hard with irritation.

"I realize you need your beauty sleep, lieutenant," the American said, "but we have some fire missions coming up this afternoon and those guns need to be moved. Let's go, huh?"

The Vietnamese stirred, "Oh, I'm sorry but I go My Tho this afternoon. Capt. Thanh said OK I go."

"I know many pretty girls in My Tho but we gotta war to fight. Can't you go tomorrow?" the American asked.

The lieutenant smiled and shrugged and the American knew he would have to find someone else to take care of the guns.

War in South Viet Nam is like that. War is also a mob of soldiers with fire in their eyes storming a line of Viet Cong bunkers, fighting and dying with courage that would be a credit to any army.

But it is a long war and the times for courage are rare. The main thing is just to last it out somehow, without getting killed.

It is hard to measure the morale of the South Vietnamese fighting forces and the fighting spirit of the people who support them. Morale never seems to be so low that soldiers just stop fighting. But morale never seems to be high enough to satisfy American standards of what is necessary to win.

Since Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh seized power as premier last Jan. 30 a lot of things have been done to boost the welfare of the 615,000 fighting men under his command. The draft was stepped up to get replacements for exhausted line veterans. Last year the draft practically stopped. Last month 12,000 recruits were hauled into induction centers.

Salaries were increased for all ranks of all services. Now a private with two children earns the equivalent of nearly $30 a month and a major general around $259. Promotion and decoration policies were liberalized.

Life was also made a little easier for the quarter million men in the "paramilitary forces" — the regional militia men who have been carrying the brunt of the war — and the casualties — against the Viet Cong for the past four years.

Vietnamese soldiers are not issued food and they must buy or steal and prepare everything they eat. The money issued for buying food became a little freer this year.

But despite these benefits the war has not been going any better. The armed forces wreck one Viet Cong unit after another but the enemy keeps growing in strength and continues to sap the blood and energy of the troops.

And in a continuous undertone the enemy keeps preaching peace to the soldiers. For example, weeping old women walk into a Saigon hospital to talk to wounded soldiers, telling them how the National Liberation Front — Viet Cong — only seeks peace for the nation and an end of 20 years of bloodshed. Some of the men listen before the old women are arrested.

Such things seep into the Vietnamese army, undermining fighting morale.

It is a hard, frustrating life. Desertions from the regular army average about six per 1,000 men per month. Police currently are looking for about 8,000 deserters but punishment for desertion is only a few months in jail and then reinstatement in the army.

Viet Cong forces of all types, whose numerical strength has been rocketing during the past four years despite heavy battle losses, now number up to 114,000. This gives the government a six-to-one numerical edge, but experts on guerrilla warfare from Malaya and elsewhere maintain the government must have an edge of 10 to 15 regular troops for every guerrilla to start winning.

American officials who accept these figures hold that the Vietnamese armed forces would have to be at least doubled to start holding the line and winning. Prospects of any such increase in armed forces strength are very small. For one thing, much of the nation's draftable youth lives in Viet Cong-controlled areas. For another, the fighting spirit of the nation does not seem high enough to tolerate a mobilization going much beyond what it is already.

There are a thousand theories as to why the war is going badly. But the soldier of the line none of the theories matters much.

"In a war you just try to keep going and survive. I gave up thinking of the future years ago," said one.

Reason Cited For Studying Literature

By JUDY SHORT

How many inexperienced kids are there in the United States, who would read and could enjoy Shakespeare on their own free time?

Before having literature in school, most teenagers think of Shakespeare as being some bearded rectangular dead-beat who lived in the Dark Ages when everybody talked strangely. It is up to our high schools to guide these misinformed students.

A love for literature is developed, not inherited. We acquire a liking for writing styles and kinds of poetry just as we acquire any culture through conditioning and the learning process. Once the high school has given the needed background for literature, the student can obtain pleasure, a deeper understanding of the world he lives in, and mental growth through the myriad experiences of older, wiser people of other generations. M.J. Adler has said, "It provides us with a fictional world that reflects and illuminates the actual world of our experience."

Literature enables us to learn history in a practical sense. That history is a dull book full of dates, battles, and wars is the erroneous concept many students have. On the contrary, history is made of real people who thought and felt the same emotions we feel today.

Literature gives us a glimpse inside the minds and lives of characters who represent the people of centuries ago. For example, Shakespeare was a very able playwright who portrayed his characters as true Elizabethan people with Elizabethan beliefs and ideals. Through literature a portion of history is preserved forever in its true undistorted form.

Literature was not intended to be for a few select intellectuals. Quotes from the works of Shakespeare can still profit a man of the world today. High schools are obligated to give every student an equal chance toward the beginnings of mental growth through literature.

Annual Titled 'Yearling' At Westfall

By PATRICIA STROUS

The Westfall High School yearbook named the Yearling during a recent contest by Shirley Hiles, sophomore, is on sale for $3 until Dec. 22. After that date, the price will increase.

Many features will be presented in this new publication. The Yearling will be the college-size 9 x 12 with a hard-back cover which was designed by Barbara Davis, a senior. Other features include complete fall and spring activity coverage, double page spread colored photo, approximately 100 pages and an interesting presentation of the student body and faculty.

Staff members have been working diligently selling advertisements and subscriptions. The 17 staff members visit homerooms periodically to remind the students to buy their Yearling before the prices go up.

Westfall FFA Meet Scheduled

There will be a Westfall FFA meeting Thursday Dec. 10, in the Vo-Ag room at 8 p. m. "Chapter Farmer Initiation" and "Pest Hunt" will be discussed. An officer from the Highway Patrol office will discuss highway safety and show a film on highway accidents.

Logan Elm Names Youth Leadership Contestants

By JUANITA JOHNSON

The Youth Leadership Contest is designed to honor high school seniors who have shown outstanding leadership.

High school teachers choose the one boy and girl of their school who they feel have demonstrated outstanding leadership abilities. After selection by the faculty of their schools, the students are put into competition with other students first on the local, state, and finally, if they have qualified, the national level. Awards on the state level are two $100 Savings Bonds; on the national level a $1200 bond is given for first place, $1000 for second and $800 for third.

Logan Elm has chosen its participants in the Youth Leadership Contest. A rundown on each of the two students follows:

Linda Trimmer, 17, lives at Route 4, Circleville with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Trimmer. At Logan Elm she is a member of the chorus, of the yearbook, newspaper, and office staffs, plays intramural sports, is a varsity cheerleader, sergeant-at-arms of Farm Bureau Youth, vice president of Junior Leader, secretary of her 4-H club. Away from school she is a member of a Sunday School Group, and is pianist of the Gospel Lighters, a singing group from her church. When asked her reaction to the news that she had been chosen, she said: "I was really surprised, and feel greatly honored. I only hope I can represent Logan Elm well."

Jim Wilson, also 17, lives at Route 1, Circleville, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Wilson

Class To Buy Display Case

By BRENDA LIST

The senior class of Logan Elm High School voted to purchase a display case for a section of the Logan Elm tree.

President James Wilson appointed the following planning committee: chairman, Eddie Umstead, Ronnie Webb, Neil Wolfe and Bob Arnold. The committee decided to buy a display case 82 inches tall, 36 inches wide and 28 inches deep. It will be built of birch paneling. The piece of wood, 20"x28", will be set at an angle for better viewing.

The graduation gift will also include an oil painting of the tree in full growth by Robert Mills and Chief Logan's speech engraved in bronze. In the case will be a plaque stating that it was donated by the class of 65.

The display case will be in the lobby of the school. It is possible that in many years the section of the tree at Logan Elm will be the only large part left.

French Club

Named at Westfall

Members of Le Cercle Francaise du Westfall, the newly adopted name of the French Club, have been working very hard since the start of the year.

The first project was to learn more about the French people, their customs, environment and mostly their language.

Christmas is coming and the club plans to learn to sing French Christmas carols.

GAA Organized At Westfall

The Westfall GAA has been organized by Mrs. Pat Ogle, the physical education instructor.

The GAA has been divided into two divisions because of the many girls wishing to be members. The divisions are the Junior GAA for freshmen and sophomores, and the Senior for juniors and seniors.

Members of the club will be participating in such sports as soft ball, basketball, bowling, tennis and table tennis. The constitution has not yet been composed. Any girl wishing to help in its composition had the opportunity to register with Mrs. Ogle.

English Class

Presents Skits

Miss Styers Junior English class at Westfall has been presenting skits to get the feel of performing in front of an audience and also to help students' speech and use of different words.

The class is doing research on drama and in the next two weeks it will be studying biographical writings so that students will be able to write their own biographies and autobiographies.

LE Council Plans Shoe Fund Drive

By JAMES WILSON and BONNIE WEBB

The Logan Elm Student Council will conduct a shoe fund drive, under the direction of Mr. Gobel Branham for the less fortunate children of Pickaway County, Dec. 7-18.

Anyone may send donations to the Student Council, Route 4, Logan Elm High School.

The Council will toll in the Christmas spirit with an array of decorations. They will brighten the lobby with the traditional 10-foot Christmas tree adorned with tinsel and bulbs.

In the cafeteria, two huge silver bells will hang in the center, and Santa Claus, reindeer and Christmas trees will be frosted on the windows.

"To bring a small portion of the Christmas spirit to not only each student of Logan Elm, but also others in our county," is this month's goal of the Student Council.

WF Band Has Busy Schedule

By JOY HAMILTON

Members of the Westfall Band have been entertaining and gaining experience by playing for pep sessions and members are alternating to play in the Pep Band at home basketball games.

On Nov. 25, they presented part of the program at the school Thanksgiving Assembly. The following Friday they escorted Santa Claus while playing in the holiday parade at Circleville.

Members from the beginning bands held a carry-in supper followed by a large rehearsal session at Westfall on Nov. 23. Over 90 of the beginning band members were present.

Also, band officers have been elected. They are as follows: president, Dave Schein; vice president, Linda Minor; secretary, Joyce Long; music librarian, Joy Welsh; and props manager, Jean Justice.

They are currently planning a Christmas party for Dec. 21. They are busy learning the music for the CChristmas program. The band will also give a Christmas Concert open to the public. We hope to have a large attendance and invite everyone to come.

Shorthand Class Has 12 Seniors

By PATRICIA STROUS

Westfall's commercial classes are progressing steadily. Periodically a class will be selected for a special report.

The shorthand II class is composed of 12 seniors with each spending much time on striving to meet speed and mailability requirements. During the past week, three students passed the speed and accuracy requirement for three minutes at 90 words per minute. They are Karen Liff, Sue Perkins and Becky Stevenson.

Others working on 80 and 90-word takes are Brenda Fletcher, Ruth Lewis, Susie Pontious, Elizabeth Rowland and Edith Vallette.

All of the second-year writers enrolled are constantly striving to reach a new speed level. By spring the girls hope to be writing 120 or more words per minute.

TV Student Is Cited For English Achievement

David Sherertz of Teays Valley High School has been cited as one of the outstanding students of high school English in the country.

The National Council of Teachers of English has named him a 1964 national runner-up in its annual Achievement Awards competition.

Last spring a committee of English teachers from the high school nominated Sherertz to represent Teays Valley High School in the competition. The nation's schools nominated almost 8,000 students for the NCTE citation. Of that number 860 finalists were chosen. They represent 620 schools from 50 states, the District of Columbia, and American preparatory schools abroad.

In announcing the winners, James R. Squire, executive secretary of National Council of Teachers of English, said that the council recommends these students for college scholarships in 1965. The names of these students are sent to every college and university admissions officer. In previous years, 99 percent of the awards winners entered the college of their choice. Approximately 80 percent of those applying for scholarships received financial aid.

The NCTE sends to all winners and runners-up scrolls of recognition. It honors their high school departments with certificates of merit.

Mrs. Bertha Wotschak, Miss Pricilla Secrist and Mrs. Phoebe Eusle have been David's English instructors at Teays Valley High School. David's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Sherertz of Ashville.

Wake Forest Star Wins Grid Titles

NEW YORK (AP) — Brian Piccolo of Wake Forest has officially been awarded major college football's 1964 rushing and scoring titles — after making the longest climb of any double winner in history.

Piccolo won the rushing title with 1,044 yards gained in 10 games to 1,004 for runner-up Jim Grabowski of Illinois, who played in nine games. Piccolo scored 111 points on 17 touchdowns and nine extra points, edging Howard Twilley of Tulsa by one point.

In 1963, Piccolo finished 119th in rushing and tied for 251st in scoring with 367 yards and 22 points.

Kuharich Awarded 15-Year Contract

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joe Kuharich said today his new 15-year contract as general manager and coach of the Philadelphia Eagles — believed unprecedented in the National Football League — would help provide a solid basis on which to build the team.

Eagles' owners Earl Foreman and Jerry Wolman announced the elevation of Kuharich to general manager Wednesday and the signing of the long-term contract.

In a statement they said: "It is our belief that the most expedient way to build and maintain a winner in the NFL is to place authority in one knowledgeable individual. The Eagles are fortunate to have such a person in Kuharich."

Royals Ready To Test Celtics

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Cincinnati Royals haven't beaten the champion Boston Celtics in three tries this season in the National Basketball Association. Tonight may be the night when the teams clash at Cincinnati.

The Royals warmed up for their fourth meeting with the champs by defeating the Detroit Pistons 122-114 on the road Wednesday night.

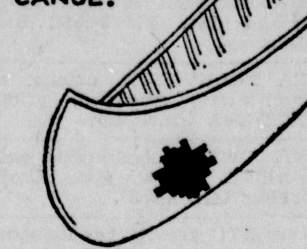

Oscar Robertson, with 22 points which included three vital baskets that stayed off a late Detroit rally, sparked the Royals to their third straight win and their fifth in their last six starts. They now trail Boston by 3½ games in the Eastern Division.

CHS Tigers Prep For Home Stand

Circleville's basketball Tigers, with a 1-3 season slate, will be out to even that mark in a two-night home stand Friday and Saturday.

The Tigers will be seeking their second win in South Central Ohio League competition when Hillsboro invades the local gym tomorrow. On Saturday the Reynoldsburg Raiders will provide competition.

Hillsboro, with the loss of All-Ohio center Fred Cluff through graduation, is now one of the shorter teams in the league.

And the Indians have been unimpressive in suffering two losses. The opening game saw the Portsmouth Trojans turn the tables on Coach Jim Saunders winless tribe.

LAST Friday, SCO favorite Miami Trace walloped the Red and White clad cagers from Highland County, 68-30.

Hillsboro is the only team in the SCO that does not have an individual listed in the top 10 scorers in the league.

John Thomas' 21-point production at Wilmington in a winning cause last week earned him a share of the scoring honors in the SCO. Larry Mowery of Washington also earned 21 points as the Blue Lions topped the Greenfield McClain cagers Friday.

Tied for second place in the scoring race were Tom Townsend and Dick Doyle, both of Miami Trace, and Gary Knisley of Washington C. H., all with 18 markers.

Mike Cowman of Wilmington has 17 points in his lone loop appearance. Sam Daugherty 15, Chet Iery and John Maxwell both have scored 12 as has Jim Conley of Miami Trace.

Last year Hillsboro downed the locals twice — by an eight-point margin at Hillsboro and by a 74-61 count here.

REYNOLDSBURG also handed Circleville a defeat last year when Jon Heischman, who is with the Raiders again this season, set a Reynoldsburg scoring record by canning 39 points.

Other league games Friday find Miami Trace at Greenfield and Washington C. H. at Wilmington.

Saturday Westfall is at Washington C. H., Hillsboro at Teays Valley and Greenfield at New Kenton.

SCO League teams have posted only one win against outside opposition in 11 games played. Greenfield defeated Paint Valley, 69-62, last Saturday.

Griffith Named Fighter of Month

NEW YORK (AP) — Welterweight champion Emile Griffith, who stopped England's Dave Charnley in a non-title bout in London, was named Ring Magazine's Fighter of the Month.

In its December ratings, released today, Ring elevated Zora Folley of Chandler, Ariz., to No. 4 contender among the heavyweights. He replaced Cleveland Williams, now recovering from pistol wounds suffered in a scuffle with police.

Williams, of Houston, was dropped to sixth. Ring still lists Cassius Clay as heavyweight champion. Sonny Liston is the No. 1 contender and Floyd Patterson second. Ernie Terrell, of Philadelphia, rated No. 1 by the World Boxing Association, is the No. 3 contender in Ring's ratings.

Sophomores Save Win For Bucks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Some teamwork plus a little hustle can add up to a breath-taking basketball victory.

Ohio State's Buckeyes demonstrated this again Wednesday night in grabbing a one-point 67-66 squeaker from Butler at Columbus.

With about 12 seconds to go and Butler holding a one-point lead, sophomore Buckeye Ron Sepic stole the ball near mid-court and dribbled to the foul line.

He flipped the ball to fast-breaking Al Rowley who, to the roar of 8,605 screaming fans, sank the bucket for the winning score.

Rowley, also a sophomore, was fouled on the play but missed the free throw. With four seconds remaining he had a chance to build a three-point lead with two more foul shots but missed both.

Butler, however, failed to get another shot at the basket before the final buzzer went off. Ohio State's victory, its fourth in five games, highlighted an eight-game card involving Ohio teams Wednesday night.

In the others, Miami downed Dayton, 95-88; Findlay whipped Bluffton, 86-76; Deference was edged by Olivet of Michigan, 61-59; Fenn smashed Walsh, 86-82; Youngstown swamped Hillsdale of Michigan, 96-63; Wilmington was defeated by Berea of Kentucky, 96-85, and Steubenville won a 60-59 squeaker over St. Francis of Pennsylvania.

Miami, which had built up a 13-point halftime lead over Dayton by using a zone defense, switched to man-to-man in the second period and found its lead slipping away. So the Redskins reverted to the zone and surged ahead to victory, led by Charlie Coles with 28 points. Dayton's Henry Finkel led all scorers with 33.

Two freshmen, Joe LaVolpa with 19 points and Joe Negro with 14, paced Youngstown to its fourth straight victory of the season. Hillsdale was led by Bruce McLenna with 22 points.

Steubenville had to stave off a late St. Francis rally to cop its fourth straight victory. The Frankies cut the Barons' lead to one point with 46 seconds left but Steubenville froze the ball until time ran out. Steubenville's attack was led by Allyn Curry with 14 points.

A fast-breaking offense in the second half broke open a close game and gave Findlay its second victory in three starts and handed Bluffton its first loss. A 7-point output by Berea's Al Combs led the Kentuckians to victory over Wilmington, now 1-1.

Saturday Westfall is at Washington C. H., Hillsboro at Teays Valley and Greenfield at New Kenton.

SCO League teams have posted only one win against outside opposition in 11 games played. Greenfield defeated Paint Valley, 69-62, last Saturday.

LONG TIME NO SEE—Signing for a January 29 bout in Madison Square Garden, Floyd Patterson (left), the former heavy champ, shakes hands with George Chuvalo, the Canadian who will be his opponent. Gen. Abraham Abraham Shines For Browns in End Zone

CLEVELAND (AP) — Win or lose, Abraham Abraham will always be a Cleveland Browns' fan. So who's Abraham Abraham?

He's nearly as familiar to Browns' home fans as Jim Brown.

Abraham ("Just call me Abe"), is unofficial cheerleader and self-appointed catcher of the ball on extra points after Browns' touchdowns. "I don't want to shag for the other team," he says.

His official job is keeper of the pass gate, where working press and guests come into municipal stadium. Abe, 57, checks everyone through. Then he dashes for the field—the same dash he has made for every home game since 1946.

Browns' fans have no trouble picking Abe out on the field. He always wears the same suit—a bright seal brown—the team's official color.

"People ask me if it's the only suit I have," Abe says. He changed once and was turned away at the gate. A police didn't recognize him. He's been wearing the same suit now for 14 years and it has become a familiar trademark to fans in the huge stadium.

Back in 1946, Abe was an assistant cigar store manager in the same building where the Browns had their offices. An official of the Browns asked if he had ever seen a pro football game. Abe said "no" and got invited to one.

After a half-hour wait to get into the game, Abe told former Browns' owner Mickey McBride that he "needed an assistant. So McBride hired me."

"One day I was walking across the field (behind the end zone) delivering a message to a doctor," he recalls. "Lou Groza was warming up and the ball hit me in the chest. I tried to catch it. I decided I'm going after the ball every time." And he has.

Lazy Redskin Voted Top NFL Rookie

WASHINGTON (AP) — His college coach used to need him for lack of chatter and hustle on the practice field.

Otto Graham, coach of the College All-Stars, said he was lazy.

"I'm just not built to make a lot of noise," explains Charley Taylor of the Washington Redskins. "I just run each play the best I can, then hurry back to the huddle."

But the 6-foot-3, 210-pound halfback's running and pass catching speak eloquently. Barring a near-collapse Sunday in the final game against Baltimore, he will be the first National Football League rookie in more than 20 years to finish in the top 10 in both rushing and pass receiving.

Taylor was named NFL Rookie of the Year Wednesday by an Associated Press panel of sports writers and sportscasters. He received 18 of a possible 42 votes.

Tied for runner-up, with five votes each, were his Redskin teammate, safetyman Paul Krause, and Cleveland split end Paul Warfield.

Baltimore Colt Coach Is Honored

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Shula's job of leading the Baltimore Colts to the Western Conference title of the National Football League in his second year as head coach earned him recognition today as the league's Coach of the Year by an Associated Press panel.

Shula won by a landslide in the voting of the 42-man group, three from each league city. The Baltimore coach had 38 votes to three for Blanton Collier of Cleveland. One committee member did not vote in this category.

The 1963 winner was George Halas, owner-coach of the Chicago Bears.

Hoosier Gives Wildcats Win

Kentucky Rumps Over Iowa State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Louie Dampier is turning out to be one of the star sophomores of the college basketball season.

The six-footer from Indianapolis exploded for 37 points to lead the ninth-ranked Kentucky Wildcats to a 100-74 victory over Iowa State Wednesday night.

"He did a tremendous job," veteran coach Adolph Rupp said after Dampier, aided by another soph, Pat Riley of Schenectady, N.Y., put the Wildcats back on the winning side after their road defeat to North Carolina Monday.

Dampier got his 37 points on 17 field goals and three fouls while Riley contributed 13 points including a three-point play that put Kentucky ahead for good at 17-15.

Michigan's Wolverines, the country's No. 1 team in The Associated Press rankings, crushed Indiana State 102-64 and the second-ranked Wichita Wheatshockers made it two straight with a 73-55 romp over Texas Western. Both were home-court victories.

Cazzie Russell's 27 points led the unbeaten Wolverines to their fourth straight. Dave Stallworth also scored 27 points and put on a spectacular defensive performance in sparking Wichita.

In a couple of one-point decisions Ohio State edged Butler 67-66 on Al Rowley's basket with 12 seconds left at Columbus, Ohio, and Cornell's Big Red invaded Syracuse and surprised the Orange 73-72. Two free throws by Jim Magliscieau on a one-and-one situation with 19 seconds on the clock won for Cornell. Massachusetts also scored a road victory over Rhode Island 79-67.

Connecticut, which surprised by beating Temple and Princeton in the NCAA playoffs last March, came from 10 points back to defeat Harvard 78-63 behind 26 points by soph. Wes Bialosuknia.

Newness!

No other Cadillac ever offered so much so new in a single year. Its styling and performance add exciting new dimensions to Cadillac distinction. Drive this car to discover its true greatness.

And when should you drive this greatest of all Cadillacs? As soon as you can! Never in history has a Cadillac delivered so much power so effortlessly or with such authority. Nor has any automatic transmission permitted such response with such smoothness. Then there is a new frame and a completely new suspension system that provide a sureness of cornering and a stability on rough roads that even veteran Cadillac owners find hard to believe. And there is such personal equipment as a new and exclusive steering wheel that both tilts and telescopes to fit your favorite driving position; lights that stay on automatically for 90 seconds to guide you into your house; and Comfort Control that maintains interior temperature season to season with a single setting. Want to know more? A Cadillac's greatness is best explained by the car itself. Drive one soon at your Cadillac dealer's!

So new! So right! So obviously Cadillac

NEW YORK (AP)—"CBS Reports," without editorializing, illuminated Wednesday night the problem of segregation in the North by documenting the hunt of an educated, middle-income Negro family for a $30,000 house in an integrated neighborhood.

Corbett Rachal, a maker of high-fashion wigs, started house-hunting last summer in the vicinity of the family's old home in Teaneck, N. J. He has not yet found one.

facilities which would attract more industry which, in turn, would provide more jobs, thus increasing the economic potential of the community.

The documentary pivoted around the history of Dillon, S. C., a town of 6,000 in a county with 31,000 population. Once only an agricultural community, Dillon saw mechanization on the farm gradually cut down the number of agricultural employees to the point where community wealth was declining and relief rolls were climbing.

Forward-looking leaders of the community set about to secure adequate airport facilities which included a lighted, hard-surfaced runway.

As a result, a large rug-manufacturer and a firm making hosiery built factories in Dillon and the town started to boom and grow. Other smaller manufacturers took an interest in Dillon, solely because of the modern airport, the documentary reported.

Leaders of the community stated that the towns initial investment was returned within a year after the first industry wheels started rolling. Because of the county-wide program of development, the project gained planning advice and financial aid from both the state and federal governments.

Such a program is envisioned for Pickaway County by the local flying association.

Ohio governor, James A. Rhodes, earlier this fall pointed a finger at Circleville, declaring that the Pickaway County seats future growth and economic wealth may well depend on the securing of adequate, modern airport facilities. Gov. Rhodes has offered the services of his office in helping to plan such facilities here.

The flying association hopes to press its campaign here with the cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce, civic groups and city and county officials.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official U. S. Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather:
